Working with Classical Chinese A Re-Introduction

This Classical Chinese intense course is designed as a hands-on revision of the core concepts of Classical Chinese as a source language. Participants of all levels of Chinese are welcome, the course language will be English. The course will adapt to the individual interests and skills of the participants, and then focus on the respective needs of the students. After quick theoretical presentations of small sets of phenomena, short example texts will be jointly read and translated in class. Apart from the featured grammatical constructions, various translation and research tools will be presented, in order to facilitate the daily work with Classical Chinese source texts.
